

Giving A Heart Of Lace Sweet And Clean Regency Romance His Majestys Hounds Book 3

When Kelly Deacon got into the private investigation career, she thought it would be easy. She'd find out dirt on the cheating spouses and call it a day. When she was handed a case that could make her career, she jumped at the chance. How could a nanny be a suspicious cover? Instead, she came face to face with the most tempting mark of all. She was staring in the eyes of the one country star she had dreamed of. She had to resist, or risk getting fired.....but was it worth the risk? Drew Evans had it all - two beautiful daughters, a music career that you could only dream of....and a ton of rumors claiming infidelity. When he saw the nanny for his daughters for the duration of the tour walk towards him, he was caught up in a case of love at first sight. Problem was, technically he was still married. His divorce was in process, but his ex claiming he cheated, and him claiming she did was the only thing stopping it from being finalized. One look at Kelly, and he was willing to take that chance. It was only a matter of time until the secret love was revealed, but who cheated?

An unforgettable novel from the national bestselling sensation Fern Michaels, about a young woman's journey into the heart of the unknown. . . Callie James learned to survive in the squalid back alleys of Dublin. Tough, spirited, and possessed of a singular beauty, she was sent to New York to find her fortune. But everywhere she turned there were men who saw only what they wanted to see in her. Byrch Kenyon offered friendship and encouragement, but he also saw the desirable woman she would one day become. Rossiter Powers, the rich son of a respected family, saw something else in Callie—and nearly destroyed her. Hugh MacDuff, rich only in love and compassion, did his best to save her. But Callie—strong, smart and determined to succeed—insisted on taking charge of her own destiny. Praise for Fern Michaels and Her Novels "Heartbreaking, suspenseful, and tender." —Booklist on Return to Sender "A big, rich book in every way. . .I think Fern Michaels has struck oil with this one." —Patricia Matthews on Texas Rich 220,000 Words

Floating Lives is a unique examination of media and communication within diasporic ethnic communities, using in-depth studies of some of Australia's main Asian diasporic groups: the Chinese, Indian, Vietnamese, and Thai communities. Going beyond conventional cross-cultural studies of mainstream media consumption, this book explores the ethnic community as a determining force in negotiating new hybrid identities and cultures—and demonstrates experiences common to diasporic communities worldwide.

Paranormal Victorian steampunk fantasy, with Gothic horror and romance. A book of manners, magic and mayhem. After her father is murdered, budding scientist Jemima Hardcastle is packed off to boarding school by her guardian and heir to Willow Park,

Edward Huntington. When they finally meet again at a house party, four years later, Edward doesn't recognise his ward and the two share a flirtation that is broken when Jemima confesses her true identity. The murder of another party guest and the theft of a precious gem interrupt any chance they have to resolve their feelings. Edward coldly ships Jemima off once more – this time back to her old home. At Willow Park, under the chaperonage of the odious Aunt Prudence and meek cousin Milly, Jemima is expected to concentrate on her needlework. Instead, she finds a friend in Edward's man, Fulton, who shows her the artificial leg his employer built for him. Impressed by this revelation of scientific genius and generosity, Jemima's esteem for Edward rises and she longs to see him again — but he does not arrive home as planned. When she discovers he has been abducted, Jemima plans a rescue, but unbeknownst to her, Edward is a gentleman magician and his devices have more than science on their side. She and Fulton plunge into London's hidden world of dark sorcery as they search everywhere for Edward — in the slums, manufactories, and even a bawdy house. When they finally find him, Jemima's life is already on the line. As Edward struggles with his feelings for his ward, Jemima's only hope for survival is if he uses one of his devices to revive the vampiric beast, Geneck ... but the ensuing havoc could destroy London itself.

A graphic, moving first novel about a beautiful young woman caught up in a sadomasochistic love affair. An unusual and potent debut. -- Kirkus New American Writing Award

In Painting the Psalms, artist Cherie Burbach shares original, mixed-media paintings that contain a positive, faith-filled message. Each painting contains inspiration from the Psalms in some way, through the imagery, words, or emotion contained within the verses. Cherie uses a variety of mediums and techniques to create art that is filled with depth and whimsy. It is her hope that this book will inspire you to look at the Psalms in a new way so you can celebrate your faith and believe in the message. Some of the paintings were created during Cherie's popular "Painting the Psalms" series of courses, where she demonstrates step-by-step progress from start to finish, including all the small details that make mixed media paintings come alive with texture and color.

"A danse macabre for millennials" from the author of 70% Acrylic 30% Wool, winner of the Campiello First Novel Award (Los Angeles Review of Books). A finalist for the PEN Literary Award for Translation, this courageous, inventive, and intelligent novel tells the story of a suicide and what follows. Viola Di Grado has given voice to an astonishing vision of life after life, portraying the awful longing and sense of loss that plague the dead, together with the solitude incited by the impossibility of communicating. The afterlife itself is seen as a dark, seething place where one is preyed upon by the cruel and unrelenting elements. Hollow Heart will frighten as it provokes, enlighten as it causes concern. If ever there were a novel that follows Kafka's prescription for a book to be an axe for the frozen sea within us, it is Hollow Heart. "The writing is pristine. Each sentence lures us further into the flies and blood-filled spirals of Di Grado's dreamworld and, most importantly, we are willing to follow her." —The Independent "Di Grado plays an inventive, self-aware game with language that saturates her macabre landscapes, transforming them into darkly comical expositions of death and unhappiness." —Music & Literature Magazine "Hollow Heart has the authentic ring of autobiography. Pure imagination is incapable of inventing something this assured, this intense and vivid . . . A writer this powerful is scary." —Sarah Wu "Hollow Heart . . . is just as strongly written as its predecessor, taking the black, manic tone of the earlier book and pushing it into a new territory—beyond the grave." —Tony's Reading List

She would tempt the devil himself... Rhea Derwent was a woman of whispering silks and emerald eyes: a vision of heaven, but a portent of hell to the three men she vowed to destroy. Born to poverty and despair, Rhea had lived for this moment, when she would ascend to the pinnacle of London society to avenge the unspeakable crimes against a woman who had died too young. But she hadn't reckoned on Ramon, the aristocratic painter who made her his muse and stole the heart she thought was shuttered to love. Ramon's image burned in her flesh while she lured other men to their destruction...spurred on by her mother's shocking diary, a wrenching record of infamy that made Rhea its slave. From London's slums to its grand salons, from opulent Edwardian society to the Amazon's darkest jungles, Rhea followed her destiny—and tried to flee from the sweet torment of a love she could never escape...

A Lady brought low by scandal, a handsome merchant, a scoundrel bent on destruction, a Valentine's Day gift. Lady Serafine Parkington struggles to keep herself and her mother alive, after the scandal of her brother's gambling and suicide destroyed their family, and left them shunned by the ton. Mr Raphael Morton, member of His Majesty's Hounds, returned war hero and wealthy merchant, is completely and utterly bored, finding it most difficult to settle back into civilian life. He seeks a business idea to engage his interest, and make life worthwhile again. When an accident of circumstance brings Lady Serafine and Raphael together, an unlikely business partnership is born. Can they save their business from an unscrupulous scoundrel, who wants their destruction, and find a partnership of the heart, as well as one of business?
