Suddenly Brooke Hayes's life is turned upside down. Again. For the past months she has fought to get it back together by overcoming her addictions, revitalizing her neglected stage career, and putting behind her the devastation left by her bitter divorce. She has also been a mother again to her nine-year-old daughter, Charly, whose upcoming visit has meant the world. Everything was fine. Until the call. Now nothing seems right. Brooke's ex-husband, Nathan, insists that Charly is home with him, but a search of the house finds it empty. Then Nathan disappears. In fear of being accused herself—given her unstable past—Brooke enlists the help of the one man, perhaps the only man, who can help her: the Keeper. John Creed is a former police officer who has felt the fear Brooke now faces. His son disappeared years before, never to be seen again, leaving him a shattered man with a thirst for vengeance. With time running out, and the police one step behind them, Brooke and the Keeper—now hunted themselves—begin their desperate search for Charly, whose young life hangs in the balance, victim to the whims of a madman.

SHE'S A TOUGH CRIME REPORTER IN A LEAGUE OF HEAVY HITTERS. BUT THAT'S OKAY— SHE KNOWS HOW TO PLAY HARDBALL ... Jessica James has a nose for a good story, but she isn't sure how much she likes the story she's getting from her mother's charming, handsome new beau with the improbable name of Charlie Browne. Especially since the tale is attached to the Hare—a stolen painting that is now hidden under Jesse's own bed. Jesse's investigation into Charlie's background turns up a hole big enough to smuggle the Mona Lisa through, which has her worried about her romantic, not-altogether-practical mom. And for good reason—in a few short days, Kate James has gotten herself entangled in art theft, bashed over the head by a burglar, and involved in a tête-à-tête with a murderer. Now Jesse must crack a stolen art ring and solve two murders—one forty years old and one all too recent—before the killer paints another masterpiece in scarlet.

Jessica James is sleeping on a desk in the attic waiting for a flight home to Montana. She blames her advisor, Professor Wolfgang "Wolf" Schumtzig, "Preeminent Philosopher and World Class Dick-Head." But when he's found dead in his office, her real education begins.

The main character, Jessica, is looking for love as she finishes her last year of school. She notices James, a graduating senior, and strives to be with him. In the process of getting to know him, she finds out he has inherited a lot of money after his father's death. Her fight for James fails as the end of the school year approaches. At a party, she reunites with James. Her obsession with him forces her to go talk to him, even though her best friend tries to stop her (Ashley is an unemployed ex-stripper). Jessica confronts Ashley, saying she is jealous because she doesn't have a man. After getting his number, they have an intimate relationship. Jessica becomes frightened by mysterious phone calls and harassing notes. She finds out later that the nuisance was coming from a woman who claims to be James' ex-wife. Upon the discovery of his other life with Elizabeth, Jessica gets trapped in a love triangle that ends with a physical confrontation, which puts their relationship on thin ice. Jessica usually uses her smooth "I get what I want" mentality to trap men in her own world, draining them of everything she wants. As she plays a teasing love game with his mind, hoping it would get him addicted to her, he catches on to her intentions. She puts the game to the side until she feels it is necessary to continue. As she slacked off her game, she fell in love. Their love becomes intimate and being sexually active causes her to get pregnant. After a quick sexual encounter with her boss, she is unsure who the baby's daddy is. Jessica's relationship with James erupts when she catches him in her bed with another woman. This takes their love on a new journey.

She's been called headstrong. She's been called opinionated. Hell, she's been called everything in the book, and now, in this fourth mystery in the acclaimed series, the outlaw Jesse James rides again. It's springtime in upstate New York, where the lilacs are in bloom and love is all around—even for Jessica James, full-time investigative reporter and part-time fool. Well, why shouldn't she be? Everyone else is in love: her mother, still honeymooning with the mischievous Charlie Browne; and her sometime lover, mobster Marcus Andrelli, who seems to have forgotten Jesse and taken up with another woman. For Jesse, though, love is literally in the air, with a handsome pilot named Mac Devlin. The mystery starts simply, and in Jesse's never-dull world, that's a feat. A mysterious man is shadowing Mac, and the reporter instinct in Jesse takes over.
